

John Perreault
Operations Team Leader
Enterprise Training Services
Department of Energy

John is a member of Department of Energy's, Enterprise Training Services, Albuquerque Operations Center. His experience includes over thirty years in government and industry, specializing in Organization Development, Organization Effectiveness, Performance Management, and Strategic Planning.

Prior to joining DOE, John was a certified Lean/Six Sigma Black Belt for Los Alamos National Laboratories' Performance Management and Continuous Improvement Division.

John's Organization Development experience as an internal and external consultant for Fortune 50 and 100 companies include Slim-Fast Foods, Phillip Morris, Miller Brewing, Kraft Foods, General Mills, BHP World Minerals, Sandia National Laboratories, Sumitomo Sitix Silicon and Starlight Publishing Company.

John's organization development work includes strategic planning, manufacturing plant start-ups, and work system redesign to identify productivity savings and implement High Performance Work Systems (HPWS) in union and non-union manufacturing facilities. He developed methodologies for conducting rapid organizational redesign and implementation processes, delivering remarkable business results.

Prior to his work in the manufacturing sector, John spent 18 years in the United States Air Force. His career included tours of duty as a production supervisor for aircraft weapons maintenance functions, and later as a logistics analyst as the Advanced Aircraft Acquisition Manager, and the Advanced Tactical Fighter - Aircraft Test Development Manager.

John holds an MA in Psychology from Webster University and a BS in Education from Southern Illinois University.